Subject: 2014 Twitter Account Congressional Election Complaint

Attached, please find Copies of my Twitter and Website Pages, which include Website and Twitter Disclosure Statements. My Web Page (paulspainforcongress.com) and Twitter Account clearly have a Disclosure Statement in full display. Further, I have never as an Individual used Twitter, as any Tweets associated with my Candidacy were posted by my Web Consultant and Web Compliance Mgr. (Craig Agranoff, craig@PoliticalConsulting.com, TN:), or a Member of his Staff. Individual Flyers sent out on Twitter also had Disclosure Statements and they were designed and sent out via Twitter by my Campaign Consultant, Margie Helsehein, TN:

I was assured by Mr. Agranoff that all correspondence was properly coded and complied with existing FEC rules regarding communications with the public.

Regarding Mr. Shamis and his Complaint. It appears from newspapers that Mr. Shamis was the Marijuana Candidate who was allowed to be on the ballot after complaining to the State of FL Elections Board that he should not be denied access to the Ballot and Voters just because he could not afford the $10,000. Filing Fee. He was subsequently allowed to be a Write-In Candidate on the 2014 Congressional Ballot. In hindsight, it appears that Mr. Shamis suffers from some sort of personality disorder, having observed his erratic behavior the one time I met him at a Candidate Forum. In addition, someone mentioned to me that in the past Mr. Shamis was supposedly arrested in Delray Beach, FL for running naked through the Streets of the town. Following the arrest, marijuana plants were found at his home it appears that he was taken in for growing marijuana plants illegally in Florida.
